FARMERS ORGANIZE CO-OPERATIVE CO.

Meeting of U.F.A. Delegates Monday
Elect Nine Directors and Hear
Reports of Construction.

The Alberta Farmers Co-Operative Elevator Co. was duly organized at Calgary on Tuesday.

At the opening by a small majority the reporters were excluded owing to what was considered a misleading statement appearing in the News-Telegram concerning the government and the company, but it was agreed to supply a report for the newspapers. However, as the report has not appeared up to the present writing in any paper the CALL is pleased to be able to give a few particulars, kindly given by a delegate in conversation.

Our informant states that when the formation of the company was first mooted it was feared that it would not be possible to get 20 locals to subscribe as the Provincial Government act calls for, but when the meeting to organized convened it was found there were 46 unions ready for business and 138 delegates present.

Proceeding with organization it was shown there was plenty of funds in the treasury to carry out the payments required and that all of the conditions of the act could be complied with. The Hon. Duncan Marshall was present and stated that Premier Sifton was in the east but would return in about four days when he would be pleased to meet the directors of the Farmers company and have all the papers signed as quickly as arrangements could be completed.

The election of the board of directors resulted in nine being selected, the three receiving the highest number of votes to stand for three years, the next for two and the last 3 for one year. It was understood E. J. Fream is to have the management of the elevator business for at least the first year.

The elevators are to cost from $8,500 to $10,000 and in some places established concerns have been purchased. The machinery, lumber, etc., has been purchased and the first 25 are now being erected in Southern Alberta, the balance will be started in north, where the crops are not so early, about the 25th upon the arrival of the machinery, some of which has been delayed in shipment. All the elevators will have a capacity of 34,600 bushels, divided into 23 bins each holding sufficient to load an 80,000 car. The most modern machinery has been purchased and each elevator will be equipped with both inside and outside weighing scales.

The hour of going to press forbids further details in this issue.

Cluny Box Social

A most successful box social and entertainment took place in the Cluny school house on last Saturday evening. It was organized by Mr. and Mrs. Gardner, assisted by ladies of the district for the purpose of acquiring an organ for the Sunday school held at the Wheatfield school house.

The program was furnished almost entirely by the children, and their recitations and dialogues reflected great credit on Mesdames Gardiner and M. and T. White, who trained them. Also, a recitation by Mrs. M. White, entitled "St. Peter at the Gate," was well rendered, and the singing of Miss Davis was much appreciated, as was also an exhibition of cavalry sword exercise given by Capt. W. H. Coates. J. P. Cleal made an ideal chairman and at the conclusion of the program handed his duties over to Mr. Forsythe, who acquitted himself very creditably as an auctioneer, and sold the large number of tastefully made-up baskets to such advantage as to realize $68 for the organ fund.

Quite a large number of people attended, some coming from Gleichen. At the close of the proceedings Mr. Gardner moved a vote of thanks to those who had helped to make the affair such a success; this was seconded by Mr. Coates and carried by acclamation.

Prairie's Sweetest Music

The merry hum of the binder is now heard the length and breadth of the entire district, and providing weather conditions obtain, will be in full swing by Monday. The heavy rain Sunday rather discouraged many at the time, but bright warm sunshine since has proven most encouraging and beneficial.

The grain crop generally promises to be a very good one, but the CALL regrets it cannot promise that it will be one of our bumper crops. In some localities there are crops that can not be beaten any year anywhere, but in others hail has done some damage and the yield is not so heavy as usual in others. Yet all considered, there is little to complain of. Another three weeks will see most of the grain out.

Vegetables, hay and alfalfa will undoubtedly result in big returns for the late rains have produced a wonderful growth in these.

Lawn Social Enjoyed

The ladies of the Presbyterian church gave a most successful lawn social and entertainment on Mr. Gooderham's lawn on Wednesday evening of last week, netting the sum of $72. The beautiful lawn at the Agency was nicely lighted for the occasion, and the large crowd present thoroughly enjoyed itself.

Several contests were participated in, the prizes being awarded as follows:

Dime contest—Miss Arnold.
Advertising—Miss Willoughby.
Hammer and Nail competition—Mrs. Wainwright.
Boys' race—Roy Wishart.
Girls' race—Arnab Blane.
Dutch wheel-barrow race—Will Service and—Ariel.
Pick-a-pack—Same.
Married men's fast sprint—Mayor Chas. Bray.

Following this a musical program was rendered, and some excellent selections were listened to. Mr. Gooderham, being requested to act as auctioneer for some cakes and pies, proved an exception, and some professionals are wondering why he should be wasting his time in other pursuits, when he can sell pies at $2.00.

Miss Gibbons as a fortune teller proved quite popular and managed to add $8 towards the profits of the evening.

The entertainment reflects credit on the ladies and it is safe to say that when next they decide upon an entertainment of any kind they will be awarded for their efforts on this occasion.

Dr. Wainwright returned Sunday morning from Edmonton, where he was called owing to the serious illness of his father. He states that little hopes are entertained for the complete recovery of his father, and he fears that he may be called away at any time.

Miss Sarah Holgate from Calgary is paying a visit to her aunt, Mrs. Coates, at the C.P.R. headquarters at Ouelletteville.

Miss Emma Jones, who has been spending her vacation at her home at South camp, expects to return to Calgary in a few days.

Clark Bros. have once more brought honor to Gleichen. Once more they can show prizes that prove they possess the very best Clydesdale horses in Canada. Their latest victories were at the Edmonton exhibition. Let us quote from a brief letter written the CALL from Edmonton, by one who saw the exhibition:

Duck Season Soon Here

Who will bring the first duck to this sanctum?

Duck shooting season opens on Saturday, the 23rd, and the CALL may as well tell the twenty-third applicant that our full armoury has been loaned out for the occasion. We will stay at home that day, hoping that a few ducks will fly into this sanctum.

Our shooting man is in the east but will be back in time for antelope.

Game Warden Service has been out looking for a few offenders shooting ducks out of season, and says he surely will prosecute all offenders. Beware of Bill!

Fine Time at Picnic

A large number of Gleichenites attended the union Sunday school at the river last Thursday, all returning with stories of the splendid time enjoyed. Baseball, races and contests of many kinds, as well as fishing and similar pastimes, engaged the attention of the picnickers and combined to while the day away very pleasantly. Prizes for the contests were very generously donated by Gleichen business-men. As is usual with picnics, a sumptuous spread of edibles was not the least of the attractions.

R. M. Mace has on display in the CALL office windows a sample of what he designates as "Dakota Northern" wheat. Mr. Mace says this is a new variety in Alberta and an earlier wheat than Marquis, and he fully believes it will yield 35 bushels to the acre. When he was in Saturday he said: "This wheat stands good hip-high. I expect to be cutting it on Monday." It is a fine looking wheat and is well worth the attention of our farmers.

Gleichen school opens Aug. 25.

Town taxes due August 30th.

Mr. and Mrs. J. McEwen were passengers on the east-bound express yesterday (Wednesday) afternoon. At Carleton Place they will be joined by their son, Dr. S. F. McEwen and family, and together will spend several weeks at the old home in Ontario.

D. B. McNeil spent from Saturday night until Monday visiting Mayor Bray and family, and incidentally met many of his old-time Gleichen friends. When he got around as far as the CALL office he had only a short time to converse, but said he was glad to leave Vancouver once a year and look upon the prosperity of his former friends, and to see the seas of waving grain on the prairies, which looked even more rapturous (financially) than the waves of the great Pacific. "Dan" did not really say this in so many words, but then he was real hungry for a look at the prairie and hopes to return annually. Like all old-timers he longs to come back to see the changes from the time he ranched out north, punched cows and all the rest, and then completed his fortune in store-keeping in Gleichen. His stay here was a relief from the sloppy slope and the roar of city and ocean, to say nothing of meeting hundreds of good true friends, who wish him all the pleasures that the gods can bestow upon him.

Baseball Friday night
Brooks vs. Gleichen.
It'll be a good game!

Mrs. W. A. Elder spent a couple of days in Gleichen this week visiting former friends, accompanied by Mrs. James Flint of Pittsburg, Pa. Mrs. Elder states that Mr. Elder is meeting with good success in Black Diamond and has struck natural gas in plenty, and is continuing with every prospect of striking oil. She is hopeful that some day he will return to Gleichen and continue his boring for oil.

W. Stuart & Co. have sold out their Gleichen lumber yard to the Revelstoke Sawmill Co. and the Crown Lumber Co. It appears there is a movement on foot throughout the province to amalgamate the lumber yards in the different towns.

Miss Down left yesterday to accept a position in a Vancouver school after a short visit to her Gleichen friends. Since she resigned from the school here she has held several positions, the last being north of town.

STANDING GRAIN COMPETITION

M. Bollinger Wins First Prize, J. E. Ostrander Second, and Wm. Walsh Third Prize.

The generous prizes offered by the Alberta government for standing fields of seed grain through the Gleichen District Agricultural Association have been announced by George Hutton of Lacombe, who was appointed judge by the Provincial Department of Agriculture, to be as follows:

M. Bollinger 1st.
J. E. Ostrander 2nd.
Wm. Walsh 3rd.
These prizes were won for wheat against ten competitors.

Before asking the secretary to read the awards of the judge, the directors had a lively discussion, as it had been reported that the judge had examined some of the fields by lamp-light. It was decided that the secretary should write to the department a strong letter objecting to judging by lamp-light, and that his letter and the reply when received, should be published.

Before the secretary was permitted to read the awards of the judge a vote was taken and it was decided that the prizes should be allowed as the judge prescribed.

It may be best here not to go further into the arguments of the lamp-light judging for the reason that it is understood Mr. Hutton advanced scientific reasons why it was possible to judge better by artificial light.

But let us remark that the discussion on this point will result in some good by showing our directors want a fair deal, and let us hope it will stimulate our farmers to enter into all of the competitions next year.

After spending the summer holidays at home, Miss Ishabell Gooderham left on Sunday to renew her studies in Mount Royal College, Calgary. A number of relatives and young friends were at the station to wish her every success. Ishabell hopes to return Christmas with a certificate as a first-class teacher.

Dwarfs
In the fresco of the "Vision of the Cross" in the Constantinian room of Raphael's Stanza at the Vatican, one of the figures is a strange one to find in the representation of such a solemn subject. It is a very small dwarf, wearing an enormous golden helmet that would be more suitable to a giant. To the modern mind this grotesque figure seems a jarring note in a stately composition, but there is no doubt that Raphael, who designed the picture was justified by history in introducing him, for it is known that Constantine was a connoisseur in dwarfs and had one of whom he was no higher than a partridge.

This curious taste for dwarfs dates from early times; in the days of the empire, from Augustus onwards, no man of fashion felt his establishments complete without at least one; their drolleries and antics were found amusing and they were sometimes allowed liberties denied to others; the Emperor Tiberius for instance, would allow his dwarf to tell him truths that he would submit to from no other. One of the spectacles with which Domitian regaled the people in the circus was a battle of dwarfs.

Through the Middle Ages and the Renaissance, the fashion of having these unfortunate creatures attached to courts and the establishments of the great continued. Everyone knows how in the palace of Mantua, built for Isabella D'Este, there is a suite of rooms for these tiny retainers, with doors suitable only for their passage, and in the pictures of Veronese, Mantegna, Velasquez, and almost all the great painters of the Renaissance we find them portrayed. The dwarf who served as model for Raphael in the Constantinian fresco belonged to the pope and revealed that of Constantine in size or rather in the lack of it.

Robert, dear, how do you suppose these dozens of empty bottles ever got into our cellar? Why, I don't know my dear. I never bought an empty bottle in my life.

Young Raymond had been busy all of the afternoon with his little pail and shovel on the beach. Bedtime came, and wearily he stood while his mother undressed him. Then prayers were next in order, and by that time he was almost in the land of nod.

Now, be a good boy, dear, and say your prayers. Thank God for all His goodness to you. His head had fallen on her shoulder. Raymond, she said sternly, as she shook him, you cannot go to bed until you have thanked God for His blessings; for giving you a nice, comfortable home, and a lovely beach to play on, and a mother to love you. Think of the number of little boys tonight who are hungry and without a home and no nice clothes to wear, and—

Here Raymond's interest became roused sufficiently to protest sleepily: Mother, I think them the fellows that ort to do the praying.

A good story is told of two doctors, who met for the first time at a reception. Both were famous, though each adopted a different system of treatment. Said the one, loftily, as he shook the other by the hand; I am glad to meet you as a gentleman, sir, though I can't admit that you are a physician. And I, said the other, smiling faintly, am glad to meet you as a physician, though I can't admit you are a gentleman.

With a bright and breezy air, the commercial traveller entered the grocer's shop, opened his bag, spread his samples on the counter, and smiled expectantly. The grocer was in no mood for travellers; with a sweep of his hand he threw the articles into the street, and hurried their owner after them. Picking himself and his goods out of the mud, the traveller re-entered. Joking apart, he said, what about these samples?

A Canadian woman wanted to show her Chinese servant the correct way to announce visitors, and one afternoon went outside her front door, rang the bell, and made the man usher her into the drawing-room. The following afternoon the bell rang and, not hearing him answer it, she went to the door herself. To her surprise he was standing waiting outside. Why, Sing, she asked, what are you doing here? You fool me yesterday. I fool you to-day, was his reply.

Nights of Agony come in the train of asthma. The victim cannot lie down and sleep is driven from his brain. What grateful relief is the immediate effect of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy. It banishes the frightful conditions, clears the passages, and enables the afflicted one to again sleep as soundly and restfully as a child. Insist on the genuine at your nearby druggist.

She was a pretty young school teacher and was reading sentences to her class, letting them supply the last word.

The Sphinx, she read, has eyes, but it cannot—
See! cried the children.
Has ears but it cannot—
Hear! they responded.
Has a mouth, but it cannot—
Eat! came the chorus.
Has a nose, but it cannot—
Wipe it! thundered the class.
The lesson then ended.

At a printers' festival lately the following toast was offered: Women, second only to the press in the dissemination of news. The ladies are yet undecided whether to regard this as a compliment or otherwise.

Locating the Shortage
I can't understand how some things get their names, declared the grumpy boarder.

For instance?
Take this strawberry shortcake. If they had called it shortberry straw-cake I could have seen the point.

Peck—You will never get the dog to obey, my dear. Mrs. Peck—I will, with patience. You were just as troublesome yourself at first.

The sixth sense is the most useful. What one is that? The sense to use the other five.

Knew His Ground
You say this man is no chicken staler? Inquired the judge.

Yassuh, replied Mr. Erastus Pinkney. Da's what I said.

What do you know about the facts in this case?

I isn't s'posed to know nuffin 'bout facts in de case. I is an expert witness foh de defence.

J. Pierpont Morgan was always a silent man, and he would sometimes champion the silent with a story.

Old John Bates, an upholsterer, so the story began, was renowned for his silence. People who had been his customers for a generation had, many of them, never heard a word from him except: Good morning. Five dollars. Thank you. Good day. Old John, in fact, cultivated silence as a genius cultivates his art.

A patron one day said to John: What's the best kind of mattress?

Hair, was the reply.

The patron, some twenty years later had occasion to buy another mattress, and again he asked:

What's the best kind, John?

Cotton?

Cotton? the patron cried. Why you told me twenty years ago that hair was the best.

The old man gave a quaint sigh. Talking has always been my ruin, he said.

Minard's Liniment Cures Colds, Etc.

He entered the Meteorological Service Office and said abruptly: This 'ere's where you give out weather predictions, ain't it?

The clerk nodded.

Well, continued the old man, I thought as how I could come up an' give you some tips.

Yes, said the clerk, politely.

Yes; I've figured on a little, and I find that ye ain't always right.

No. We sometimes make mistakes.

Course you do. We all do sometimes. Now, I was thinking as how a line that used to be on the auction handbill down in our country might save you a lot of explaining.

What was the line?

Wind and weather permitting.

He went out without waiting to say good-bye.

Miller's Worm Powders are a prompt relief from the attacks of worms in children. They are powerful in their action and, while leaving nothing to be desired as a worm expellant, have an invigorating effect upon the youthful system, remedying fever, biliousness, loss of appetite, sleeplessness, and other ailments that follow disorders caused by worms in the stomach and bowels.

A schoolmaster had been severely correcting one of his boys, and finished by saying: Now sit down and write a letter to your parents, telling them how much you are taught here, and how little you profit therefrom. The boy cried a good deal, and then wrote: Dear Father,—I am very stupid, though there is more to be learned here than anywhere. Twice two's four, four boys go to one bed; six bed make one attic, and four attics make one well ventilated and appointed sleeping dormitory. One round of bread and butter makes one breakfast and every tea makes its own supper. This time, said the master, we will—er—overlook your conduct and you need not send that note. (He had been overlooking it.)

It was story telling time in the first grade. The teacher had taken her place in front of the class and asked: What would you like to hear today? A little hand shot up in the back of the room. Well, Bobby, what story do you want? Please, ma'am tell us about the little boy who swallowed the piece of ribbon and it made him sick at his stomach.

The teacher looked mystified. Bobby had never heard of that story. We had better take something else. But Bobby was not so easily downed.

Oh, yes, you have, teacher. You know it says:

He ran to the window as quick as a flash.

Plunging up the shutters and threw up the sash.

The Oversea Dread
Stationmaster—cum—Porter of Wayside (Hall)—Ere, Bill, just keep an eye on that ole gal on the platform whilst I get my dinner.—Bill—Whofor? She can't come to no 'arm.

Stationmaster—I'm not thinking of 'er health; I am thinkin' about my station. She might want to burn it down.

Mrs. Green—I do admire your husband's taste, Mrs. Brown. He always dresses so quietly. Mrs. Brown—Not always. You should have heard him when he dropped his collar-stud down his neck this morning.

THE DANGER OF ANAEMIA

Consumption May Follow Unless Its Ravages Are Checked

There is danger to every girl and every woman who falls a victim to anaemia—that is bloodlessness. They become listless, feel too weak, too wretched and too hopeless to take prompt steps to stop the trouble. Too often, through neglect, they drift into a worse condition, forgetting that anaemia frequently leads on to consumption.

If you are anaemic in the least degree you should lose no time in beginning treatment, to increase and enrich the blood supply. To do this there is no other medicine so good as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Every dose helps make rich, red blood, which drives out disease and brings again the bloom of health to pale and sorrowing cheeks. There are thousands of women and growing girls in Canada who owe their present good health to the timely use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Among those who have been restored to health by this great medicine is Miss Rose Neville, Mount Forest, Ont., who says: "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills performed almost a miracle in my case. I was a victim of anaemia, in what my friends considered a dangerous form. I was very pale, always felt tired out, suffered from severe headaches, and had no appetite. I was taking doctor's medicine for a long time—in fact I tried two doctors—but instead of improving I seemed to be growing worse. My parents were at a loss to know what to do for me and thought I would not recover. Then a friend advised Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I had only taken them a few weeks when I began to feel better. This greatly encouraged me and I continued taking the Pills for some time longer, and found my health again as good as ever it had been. In fact I am stronger than ever I was before. I have advised the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to other girls who have found the results equally beneficial."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for 2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

My dear, said the conscientious wife, how can you make such statements? What's wrong now? asked the man.

Before the children you told Mr. and Mrs. Sayso, that when your grandfather got a cold in his chest he would cough so hard that his hair fell off.

Now, what sort of regard for truth will our children have if they hear their father telling such—But didn't you know my grandfather wore a wig?

Hullo, Bill, how precious white you look this morning! exclaimed a facetious caddy, addressing a brother-whip who had suddenly achieved notoriety by signing the pledge. Whatever made you go and turn yourself into a waterbut?

"Cos I know'd I should be better able to hold the reins! was the curt but conclusive reply.

A wealthy young woman from out west was recently wedded to a member of the nobility of England, and the ceremony occurred in the most fashionable of London churches—St. George's, Hanover square. Among the guests was a cousin of the bride, as sturdy an American as can be imagined. He gave an interesting summary of the wedding when asked by a friend whether the marriage was a happy one? I should say it was, said the cousin. The bride was happy, the mother was overjoyed, Lord Stick-leigh, the groom, was in ecstasies and his creditors, I should say, were in a state of absolute bliss.

Medical Professor—What is the result, young gentlemen, when a patient's temperature goes down as far as it can? Student—Why—er—he gets cold feet?

The Doctor—I think, my dear sir, that it would be better to have a consultation. Your wife is seriously ill.

Anxious Husband—There—I told my wife long ago she ought to have proper medical advice, but she was so afraid of hurting your feelings.

He—My father weighed only four pounds at his birth. She—Good gracious! Did he live?

Young Wife—How do I know you still love me?

Young Hub—I stayed home from a ball game to take you to a basket picnic.

Mr. Parist—I tell you our modern literature is deteriorating very rapidly.

Uncle Hiram—Well, I guess. You can't read the patent-medicine advertisements nowadays without having them broken up by these blamed continued stories in between.

How old are you, madam? asked the cross-examining lawyer. The woman blushed deeply and stammered, blurted out: I—1, and stopped short. The attorney looked gully. Please, madam, quickly, he urged in a gentle kindly voice; it's getting worse every minute.

She was a charitable old lady of a somewhat inquisitive turn of mind, and she was paying a visit to a naval hospital. Presently she came to the bedside of a poor fellow who was one of the victims of a gun explosion.

My poor fellow, she said, depositing a bunch of grapes within his reach, your sensations and sufferings at the time of the accident must have been terrible. Can you—will you describe them to me?

Well, mum, said John stolidly, I do not know as I can; but I can tell you I was on deck attending to my duty with the gun, when all of a sudden there was a most terrible row—and then the nurse says: Sit up and take this.

Now, here is a showcase, said the dealer, pointing to a peculiar-looking specimen of his wares, that is bound to become popular. It is gaffles everything that is put in it to double its natural size. Can't use it in my business, replied the prospective customer. What I want is a case that will seemingly reduce the actual size of its contents fully one-half. What is your line? asked the dealer. My specialty is ladies' shoes, replied the other, with a suppressed grin.

Murphy was a new cavalry recruit and was given one of the worst horses in the troop.

Remember, said the sergeant, no one is allowed to dismount without orders.

Murphy was no sooner in the saddle than the horse kicked and Murphy went over his head.

Murphy, yelled the sergeant, when he discovered him lying breathless on the ground, you dismounted!

I did.

Did you have orders?

I did.

From headquarters?

No, sir; from headquarters.

It takes eight hundred full-blown roses to make a tablespoonful of perfume, whilst a shilling's worth of cooked onions will scent a neighborhood.

A Test
To test your bride's love, go on your honeymoon wearing detachable cuffs.

An old woman who had received a cheque went with great glee to the bank to draw the money. This cheque is crossed; we can't pay it over the counter, my good woman. All right, sir, I'll come round then, was the immediate reply.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited.

Gents,—I cured a valuable hunting dog of mange with MINARD'S LINIMENT after several veterinaries had treated him without doing him any permanent good.

Yours, &c., WILFRID GAGNE, Prop. of Grand Central Hotel, Drummondville, Aug. 3, '04.

Mamma! exclaimed the beautiful girl, who had suffered affection to obscure the little intellect she possessed, what is that long green thing lying on the dish before you? A cucumber, my beloved Georgiana, replied the mamma, with a bland smile of approbation of her darling's commendable curiosity. A cucumber? Gracious goodness, my dear mamma, how very extraordinary! I always imagined until this moment that they grew in slices.

And you say that you are innocent of the charge of stealing a rooster from Mr. Jones? asked an Arkansas judge of a meek looking prisoner.

Yes, sir, and I can prove it.

How can you prove it?

I can prove that I didn't steal Mr. Jones's rooster, judge, because I stole two hens from Mr. Graston the same night, and Jones lives five miles from Graston's.

The proof is conclusive, said the judge. Discharge the prisoner.

You are not opaque, are you? asked the sarcastic man of another who was standing in front of him at a recent show. Faith, and I'm not, was the unperturbed reply. My name is O'Brien.

Different Now
Governor (sternly)—When I was your age, my boy, I was making an honest living.

Boy—And low look at you.

BLADDER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES

Are caused by poisoning impurities which clog the kidneys. Intense pain is the result and sleepless night follow. The patient becomes annoyed with sharp pains shooting through the back and up the spine. These pains often so violent and acute that the victim suffers the greatest agony and is driven almost to despair. The refuse and sediment which settled in the kidneys must be removed in order to procure relief.

SANOL, the Kidney Cure, is the only reliable remedy which has a combined effect of acting on the kidneys, and restoring them to their natural condition, and removing Kidney, Bladder and Gall Stones by dissolving same. It cleanses and purifies the system, strengthens and invigorates the kidneys, and encourages proper filtration. It relieves the pain and gives strength and energy to the body. Price $1.50 per bottle.

GLEICHEN EXHIBITION PRIZE WINNERS

The CALL reproduces the list of prize winners at the sixth annual exhibition for several reasons, chief among them being to supply all those who were unable to obtain a copy of last issue. We are, however, pleased to state that the secretary found no fault with our report, although he says several have complained that prize cards were moved before he had time to enter up all the prizes, and that one or two failed to make the entries in the classes they belonged. Such things can hardly be avoided, and we would remind our readers that the CALL repeatedly advised all to enter early and give the secretary an opportunity to carry out his work. It is most difficult for him to enter hundreds of articles on the morning of opening, answer all the questions and follow up the prize winners unless the exhibitors consider their own responsibility, and the visitors keep their hands off the prize cards until they are entered.

ASSISTANCE TO FARMERS

Under certain conditions the Company will advance a loan of $2000 to new settlers to be used in erecting a house and barn, fencing the land and sinking a well. This loan is repayable on the same terms as the purchase price.

Green appeared, rather pleased to have this message to deliver, and when Thorold came the next day he gave it him with much gusto. Thorold did not at the moment recognize Green, who was the last person in the world he expected to see again, and who was now a very different person from the hunted and terrified fugitive of Thorold's recollections. Briefly saying that he would call again, Thorold walked away, and from an upper window Joan watched him go and cried a little softly to herself.

The next day, Thorold came again, but Green had the same message for him.

Still indisposed? said Thorold, and he stared at Green so hard that that worthy felt extremely uncomfortable. Had he maintained a stolid and unconcerned appearance, Thorold would probably have suspected nothing, but his discomposure was so evident that the other's attention was attracted.

Well, tell your mistress I will call tomorrow—and the next day, said Thorold and turned away.

Joan's reluctance only served to inflame his determination to see her, for he remembered how his lips had been pressed to her hand, and it stung his soul as with a brood of little snakes that this hand he had kissed and kissed again might be the hand that was stained with his brother's blood.

Then he began to think of the rather unusual looking footman who had answered his knock at Jermyn Gardens, and gradually it dawned upon his mind when and where he had seen him before.

Greatly disturbed by this discovery he went back to his rooms, where he found waiting for him Wilton Mayne, whom he had not seen for a day or two.

It was at Lady Martin's that Mayne had first met Dora, and he was on very friendly terms both with Lady Martin and with Sir John himself. From Sir John he had just had a hint that the police suspected it, the matter of the missing black pearls that same gang with which young Frank Thorold had become so disastrously mixed up, and this news seemed to have disturbed Mayne very greatly.

You see, he said, Dora has taken such a fancy to this Miss Durand—she swears she owes her life, and she made me promise faithfully to be Miss Durand's friend. It is most awkward. What ought I to do?

Do the police know anything of the house in Jermyn Gardens? asked Thorold.

Apparently not, Mayne answered. Ought I to tell them, do you think? But if this girl really saved Dora—you see it gives her a claim upon us, does it not? And after all, she may be perfectly innocent—it is quite conceivable she knows nothing of what has been going on. Or again, we may be on the wrong track altogether; and it would be rather dreadful if we repaid her help to Dora by bringing false accusations against her if she is innocent.

It would indeed, said Thorold with a deep sigh. Do you remember that escaping convict, Green, I told you about?

Well, said Mayne. It seems he is the footman there, said Thorold.

At Jermyn Gardens? cried Mayne, much excited, then she must know. Why, then, if that is so, Miss Durand must be as guilty as the rest of them. She is not guilty, said Thorold with a dark and angry look. I say she is not guilty.

Why, what do you mean? cried Mayne in great astonishment. Not guilty when there is all we have suspected and found out and traced to her, and now an escaped convict is masquerading in her house as a footman! How do you know she is not guilty?

I know, because I love her, Thorold answered, and he felt a great and wonderful relief as there at last passed his lips the words announcing that strange thing that had been growing in his heart, growing in his life, growing and growing till now it seemed to him that nothing else in all the world was real save it.

But—Frank, stammered Mayne bewilderingly. Your brother—murdered.

Let the dead bury the dead, cried Thorold fiercely. I and Joan are living.

But she is guilty—guilty of abominable things, Mayne cried. There can be no reasonable doubt of it now that you have found this convict sheltering there—she is guilty, he said again. What has that to do with me? Thorold answered with a superb gesture. Have I not said that I love her?

CHAPTER XV.

Joan's Suspicions Dispelled

When on the same day Dora Rose called at the house in Jermyn Gardens she was more successful than Edward Thorold had been. Not that Green was very willing to admit her, and the smile with which she tried to soften his surly manner had no effect whatever on him who cared nothing for smiles save those of Joan alone. But while he was still hesitating and mumbling excuses, Dora slipped past him, and her gay laugh of triumph ringing up the stairs brought out Joan herself.

Oh, Joan, cried Dora, running up the stairs to her. There you are. That horrid man of yours didn't want to let me in, and said you were indisposed, and you do look pale certainly, only you always do that, and oh, Joan, whatever do you think—

I think you don't give one any time to think, Joan answered with that rare smile of hers which so changed and illumined all her countenance. Come in here, dear. Mother has been unwell. I cannot make out what is wrong with her, and she won't see a doctor.

Oh, I am sorry, said Dora, all serious instantly. But she will be better soon, she added with the facile optimism her easy and unclouded life had taught her, and she rattled on about half-a-dozen different things all in swift succession till insensibly the gloom and depression from which Joan had been suffering dispersed under the influence of the bright child's gaiety.

Indeed, to Joan, Dora seemed little more than a child, untouched as some delicious infant by the shadows and troubles of this transitory world. Joan was looking at her, and only half listening to her bright restless talk when suddenly she found that Dora had now got on the subject of Edward Thorold.

He looks so savage somehow, Dora complained. Every time he looks at me, I feel like saying: Please, sir, it wasn't my fault; but I suppose I ought not to talk like that, for Wilton says he is just as nice as nice. But what I came for, was to ask if you liked music. I do, especially those light jiggy airs that make you want to dance all the time, and there is a pianoforte recital to be given which I thought you might like to hear, and I like going myself, because you always see such a lot of people, and if you get in a corner you can generally have a jolly good talk while the playing's going on. If you do get scowled at a bit, so I was wondering if you would come too.

Oh, my dear, exclaimed Joan in some bewilderment, you do fly about so from one subject to another that really—

However, it appeared that what Dora intended was to invite Joan to accompany her to a pianoforte recital to be given at Lady Martin's by a recently imported German musician. Joan would have enjoyed nothing more. But she would not in any case have dared to go, and her mother's condition provided her with a convenient excuse for declining. Dora seemed vexed at her refusal, and pouted like a thwarted child.

I'm sure Mrs. Durand could spare you, she declared. I don't believe you want to come at all.

Oh, but I do indeed, protested Joan. I want to just awfully. It's so long since I heard any good music.

Then, why don't you? persisted Dora, and added candidly: I always do just exactly what I want—why don't you?

Joan smiled and shook her head, and Dora surveyed her curiously. And I believe it would do you good, she declared. You want a change—you look nearly as grave as that Mr. Thorold. Joan, do you like Mr. Thorold?

The question was so unexpected that Joan, instead of answering, blushed crimson. With a cry of delight Dora clasped her hands.

Oh, how interesting, she cried in an ecstasy. Oh, Joan, do tell me about it.

Really, Dora, you are too absurd, declared Joan. Mr. Thorold is such a stranger to me that I cannot even tell you whether I like him or dislike him.

What made you go so red, then? demanded Dora pitilessly.

I didn't, said Joan promptly. Why, exclaimed Dora, quite surprised. You can tell him just as well as I can.

What a half-brained child you are, said Joan, and having no control of herself, she spoke with such cold indifference and explained in such a chilly manner how little she was even interested in Edward Thorold that Dora against her will became convinced, she being unable to conceive that any one whose feelings were really touched could ever manage to hide them so well. It was a severe disappointment to her, for she had sensed a romance, and she even felt it a slight strain upon their friendship. It was in quite a subdued mood that she rose to go.

All the same, my dear girl, she said, though you may choose to pretend to be made of iron and ice—

Oh, no, interrupted Joan, rather distressed at this view of her character, indeed I hope I'm not.

As much as ever you like, continued Dora. I believe you want some one to look after you, just as much as any one else. Wouldn't you like to have a man worshipping the very ground you tread on? Inquired Dora earnestly.

No, indeed, answered Joan. It would be to me most uncomfortable—one would have to be so careful where one stepped.

MUST BE POLITE

German Minister of Railways Instructs Government Employees

The Prussian Ministry of Railways has issued an ordinance requesting the employees, especially their lady employees to be more polite in their intercourse with the public. Numerous complaints have reached the Ministry of short-comings in this respect and the Ministry warns its servants that if they do not turn over a new leaf sterner measures will be taken.

With regard to the ladies, their main faults appear to be too great an addiction to knitting, crocheting, and the preparation of tea or coffee when the public is impatiently waiting to be supplied with railway tickets.

In busy times they are also too apt to lose their heads and to answer impatient travelers tactlessly. Some years ago similar complaint was made about the ladies employed in the post offices and at the telephone; but energetic measures were taken by the Government to stop this nuisance and it has now become a pleasure to transact business with female post office assistants.

Burning a small piece of gold leaf is a custom observed by the Chinese at certain anniversary celebrations, and it is estimated that gold to the value of more than ten million dollars is destroyed annually in this way.

This estimate is based on the assumption that each individual of a total population of 440,000,000 burns at each of two anniversaries a piece of gold leaf weighing .308 grain, making a total of 271,000,000 grains. A five dollar gold piece weighs 129 grains.

CUBS' FOOD

They Thrive on Grape-Nuts

Healthy babies don't cry and the well-nourished baby that is fed on Grape-Nuts is never a crying baby. Many babies who cannot take any other food relish the perfect food, Grape-Nuts, and get well.

"My baby was given up by three doctors who said that the condensed milk on which I had fed her had ruined the child's stomach. One of the doctors told me that the only thing to do would be to try Grape-Nuts, so I got some and prepared it as follows: I soaked 1½ tablespoonsful in one pint of cold water for half an hour, then I strained off the liquid and mixed 12 teaspoonsful of this strained Grape-Nuts juice with six teaspoonfuls of rich milk, put in a pinch of salt and a little sugar, warmed it and gave it to the baby every two hours."

"In this simple, easy way I saved baby's life and have built her up to a strong, healthy child, rosy and laughing. The food must certainly be perfect to have such a wonderful effect as this. I can truthfully say I think it is the best food in the world to raise delicate babies on and is also a delicious healthful food for grown-ups as we have discovered in our family."

Grape-Nuts is equally valuable to the strong, healthy man or woman. It stands for the true theory of health. "There's a reason," and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Met Her Match

A few days ago two young women entered a trolley car and found only standing room.

I'm going to get a seat, said one to her companion. Now, you see!

Selecting a redated looking gentleman, she walked up to him.

My dear Mr. Green, she exclaimed, how delighted I am to meet you. You are almost a stranger. Will I accept your seat? Well, I do feel tired, I admit.

Thank you so much. The man arose. Sit down, Jane, my girl, said he, as he courteously pointed to the vacant seat. I don't often see you out on a washing day. You must feel tired, I'm sure. How is your mistress?

Whenever I listen to a poor speaker, I think of a physician whom I once heard wading through an after-dinner speech in this city, said a well-known American architect. The physician did not wade very far through this speech. He said—Unprepared as I am in this impromptu—totally unprepared, I will—ah—extemporaneously, being unprepared—Just then the physician's wife, who sat next to me said to her husband in a low, encouraging voice: Go on, Tom! You had it all by heart this afternoon. Go on.

Remedy for Nose Bleeding

There are two little arteries which supply the face with blood, one on each side. These branch off from the main arteries on each side of the windpipe, and running upward toward the eyes, pass over outside of the jawbone, about two-thirds of the way back from the chin to the angle of the jaw, under the ear. Now, suppose your nose bleeds by the right nostril; with the end of the forefinger feel along the outer edge of the right jaw until you feel the beating of the artery directly under your finger, then press the finger hard upon it, thus getting the little fellow in a tight place between your finger and the jawbone. The result will be that not a drop of blood goes into that side of the face while the pressure continues; hence the nose instantly stops bleeding for want of blood to flow, and the ruptured vessels in the nose will probably by that time contract, so that when you let the blood into them they will not bleed. Bleeding from a cut or wound anywhere about the face may be stopped in the same way.

A Constant Change In Body Tissues

"Our bodies," says Huxley, "may be likened to an eddy in the river, which retains its shape for a while, though every instant each particle of water is changing."

The tissues of the body, composed of millions of tiny cells, are being constantly broken down and wasted away by the process of life, and especially by overwork, worry and disease.

In order to reconstruct these wasted tissues there are necessary such elements as iron, sulphur, magnesia, potash, etc., and when these are not supplied in sufficient quantities in the food we eat it is necessary to aid nature by the use of some restorative preparation.

PRESIDENT SUSPENDER

Red Light Preserves Milk

Interesting experiments have recently been made concerning the influence of red light on milk. That light is detrimental to the conservation of milk has long been known, but which of the rays did the mischief has only now been determined. The red rays are beneficial, while those toward the violet side of the spectrum cause the milk to turn. Pure, fresh milk placed in an uncolored glass bottle in the sunlight, unsterilized and pasteurized milk, placed also in uncolored bottles in the same place were found at the end of the day to be completely spoiled and unfit for consumption. Absolutely no difference could be detected between the ordinary 'fresh' milk and that which had been sterilized—both were equally bad. But if even unsterilized milk is placed in a red bottle or in a bottle wrapped in red paper in the full sunlight it keeps perfectly good for ten hours.

Pasteurized or sterilized milk costs rather more, but to it many people give the preference, as it is considered more hygienic. Now, however, that experiments have proved how easily even this pure, sterilized product turns by the influence of light, it may soon be expected that every dairy will adopt red bottles. Until a sufficient quantity of such shall have been manufactured the bottles will be wrapped in red paper.

Health Lesson From Canal

Broadly speaking, we employ a physician only after illness occurs, and by this policy the per capita cost for this mode of health maintenance reaches a large annual expense. In comparison with disease curing, disease prevention, as demonstrated in the Panama Canal zone, has astonished the world. Science and sanitation have made that former hotbed of disease more healthful than the most favored American community. This feat has been accomplished at a cost of a penny a day for each resident of the Canal Zone.

This achievement alone is worth more than the immense cost of the canal construction to the American people. No longer need any hot or unhealthy region allow disease-breeding infections to prevent health and prosperity from being the normal condition of the community.

What has been done in the canal zone will be much easier of accomplishment in all southern territory of America and tropical countries elsewhere through this demonstration. Particularly our southern states can profit by introducing the new health regime and make greater safety for their own residents and settlers from the northern states who are now prevented from going south through fear of unhealthful conditions.

The late Sir W. S. Gilbert was inclined to be witty at the expense of the men and women who like to do amateur acting in the name of charity. An enthusiast once said to him, Mr. Gilbert, what do you think of our amateur club?

HOW THE CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY CARES FOR THE PUBLIC & FOR THE MEN WHO WAIT ON THE PUBLIC.

DEMONSTRATION FARM STRATHMORE

COMMISSARY BUILDING

A citizen of the world wishing to spend a holiday at Banff in the heart of the Western Canadian Rockies or to make a business journey along the lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway rents his sleeping car berth, boards the train, lives and eats in luxurious surroundings while being whisked across the continent, and has little idea of the vastness of the enterprise upon which he bestows his patronage, nor of the tremendous system which must be maintained in order that he and others, likewise minded, may travel in such safety, comfort and luxury.

For instance he goes to bed and does not know that an army of men four thousand strong is employed by that Dining and Sleeping Car Department. He is not aware that the same company could, within five days, transport an army of thirty thousand people from Vancouver to Halifax, giving each a sleeping berth and supplying ninety thousand meals a day, or practically half a million on the five day journey across the continent. Again, he does not realize that, if the dining and sleeping cars of the Canadian Pacific Railway were made up into a single train with a locomotive stationed at intervals ten coaches apart, that train would be fourteen miles long. To man this city on wheels would require an army of three thousand dining and sleeping car attendants with several hundred additional men at terminals to handle supplies for them. This is exclusive of the men in the capacity of brakemen, conductors, firemen and engineers, a total aboard in all of $4.00 per person.

TAKING CARE OF THE PUBLIC.

It would take a great deal of space to tell how the Canadian Pacific Railway takes care of that public which patronizes its lines and how also it takes care of those employees whose duty it is to minister to the comfort of that public. Yet the C.P.R. has taken many steps in that direction and it is safe to say that in a dozen particulars it stands ahead of any road on the continent when it comes to treating its dining and sleeping car employees humanely and sanely. These men are as desirable a class of public servant as can be found in any private house from the point of view of efficiency, personal cleanliness and freedom from danger of spreading disease. The company is as considerate of its men as it is of the general public and it is fully aware that such a course is simple good business.

Certainly the most colossal task that presents itself to the C.P.R. is that of provisioning its dining cars to feed the hungry multitudes who cross their thresholds each meal hour. It is estimated that in the summer season the C.P.R. serves on an average twenty thousand meals a day on its cars. For many years the company has been grappling with the problem of supplying this enormous demand in a way that would insure to the general public absolutely clean and perfectly wholesome meals and only now has the company come to believe that it has the situation completely in hand.

The first problem that presented itself was to have secure a really assured and permanent source of supply. To attain this end, incidentally, to show farmers in various districts the possibilities of their lands when scientifically worked, demonstration farms were started throughout the Dominion. These supply absolutely fresh provisions to the chain of commissary stores stretching across the continent and give the Canadian Pacific Railway the assurance of a permanent supply at cost prices. In this an absolutely radical departure was made in that the C.P.R. actually owns and operates the farms which supply it with provisions.

The advantage of this is not far to seek. Fresh milk and cream will soon be secured in whatever quantities are desired. A sufficiently large number of poultry can be kept to supply all requirements for table fowl and eggs. To insure freshness in the eggs used on dining cars the product is gathered from the nest (all eggs are non-fertile by the way) stamped with the date, and then packed in cartons and sealed for delivery to commissary stores. Milk and cream are not handled in bulk. After being thoroughly pasteurized the products are placed in sealed bottles and these are opened in the presence of the passenger with the date and date of making right on the bottle. Similar care is taken to insure absolute cleanliness.

ONE OF THE HOMES FOR THE MEN.

DORMITORY FOR DINING CAR CREWS

The Canadian Pacific and that has been the supplying of fresh bread and pastry to its patrons—bread and pastry of such a quality that the shield and beaver trademark would be its guarantee. Many experiments have been tried but that degree of success desired by the company is only now being attained. Final upon all plans comes the announcement on this year's appropriation list to the effect that the company will install a chain of modern bakeries at such terminal points between Halifax and Vancouver as would insure a complete re-baking of dining cars with fresh bread, cakes and pastries every fifteen hours. Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Moose Jaw, Calgary and Vancouver are to have such railroad bakeries as will several other points not yet definitely decided upon.

The care of meats, milk, vegetables and perishable goods for the twenty thousand people who must be fed daily by this one railway requires most elaborate refrigerator plants. All refrigeration is done artificially and the artificially perfect degree of coldness is maintained to preserve the goods and so to maintain highest quality.

A MODERN SCIENCE.

Modern medical science, both preventive and curative, has focused itself practically on one only science—bacteriology. With the art of preventing disease being the basis of human beings, more particularly in the case of all human food from the cradle to the grave. Recognizing this, the Canadian Pacific Railway has worked out an elaborate system of individual service, reducing the handling of food to a minimum. All bread, cakes, pastry, etc., prepared in individual orders; in fact this system is extended to cover all possible service; even the cream, which is made under most sanitary conditions, is prepared in individual portions, each portion wrapped in special case to prevent handling.

ITS FIRST CARE.

One of the first cares of the Canadian Pacific Railway is to see that all its employees are physically healthy and clean and to this end it has been deemed expedient to establish a chain of homes for the dining and sleeping car men over the entire continent. The C.P.R. is the only railroad corporation today which provides this class of employees with free lodgment and food when away from home. At all large terminals such as Toronto, Winnipeg, Moose Jaw, Calgary and Vancouver these dining car and sleeping car employees are housed by the company. In establishing this system the management had one main idea in view. It would be able to give the general public the assurance that every employee had a physique free from disease, because all are subjected to a special medical examination. This would itself then be in a position to assume responsibility for the cleanliness of employees. Under the system that prevails on the C.P.R. it is impossible for a dining or sleeping car employee to go out on a run, as it is called, without first having taken a bath and gotten his clothes newly cleaned and pressed free of any cost to the employee.

Nor is the Canadian Pacific Railway inspired by sordid business motives in this work. The company is not a "souless corporation" in dealing with its men. On the contrary, the homes as the illustrations will show, are an embodiment of the cozy home spirit. Comfortable nooks and corners abound. All are scientifically ventilated and managed by competent caretakers. Libraries, bathrooms, including showers, large windows and indeed all the accoutrements of the modern home are present, and everything is kept in the most sanitary condition.

A C.P.R. man is away from home he is under the company's care. And so it comes about that C.P.R. employees would pass medical inspection to report for duty in any hospital, if occasion for their service arose. The result of all this care shows in the health of the employee by going out from the terminal rested, in good health and in every way prepared to care for the public.

SECTION OF BAKEHOUSE

INTERIOR OF DINING CAR.

Fruits and vegetables form a large item on dining car menu. The Canadian Pacific Railway imports these from all parts of the world and offers them on its tables before they are available elsewhere, and then, when the Canadian products are ready the preference is given them. In fact the company specializes in the famous fruits and vegetables of British Columbia and contracts for these products for the entire requirements, especially apples and potatoes, for this service for all western lines one year in advance. The quality of these fruits, such as apples, plums, cherries, pears, and vegetables, such as celery and potatoes now stands highest in the continent.

AN OBSTINATE PROBLEM

One really obstinate problem has confronted

AUTOMOBILES

With the advent of 1913 many new cars are noted on the Canadian markets. Both new and old show many refinements and improvements over 1912.

McLAUGHLIN-BUICK builders have made good their claim to a country built car.

A car built for our none-too-good Canadian roads.

A car fitted with all the latest improvements.

The prices are moderate.

Careful comparison is invited with the higher priced cars and especially with cheap cars whose makers base their extravagant claims of present worth on what their cars have not, instead of what they have.

We also have some excellent values in rebuilt cars repainted and overhauled.

GOOD WRESTLING BOUT

Gleichen Athlete Meets So-Called "Champion of Canada". -- Two Girls On Program Also

Last Thursday night there was fun galore in the Opera House for the people of Gleichen who enjoy good wrestling. A wrestler by the name of Jack Taylor, advertising himself as the heavy-weight champion of Canada, agreed to throw six local men and to give $25 to any man who stayed off his back for fifteen minutes. He also put on a wrestling match between Ada Lorraine and Reta Taylor, claiming them to be the only lady wrestlers in Western Canada. The ladies put up a good exhibition which was thoroughly enjoyed by over 150 people. But, Oh, my! Jack Taylor was a sorry man. He met his defeat in a Gleichen man—Chris Anderson—and lost the $25 wager to him. Jack McDowell, the local plasterer, refereed the match, and for fifteen long minutes Professor Taylor struggled to get Anderson's two shoulders on the mat, but in vain. Anderson worked entirely on the defense, and just as the professor on several occasions seemed to think he had him sure, Anderson slipped away from him so nice and easy that the crowd cheered to the echo. However, Taylor proved a good sport, and when the struggle was over, addressing the audience he said:

"If this man belongs to your town you may well be proud of him: I may say that in eight days I shall be pleased to match him."

Anderson at once accepted, but it is not learned that Taylor has put up a forfeit to appear at any date. Anderson says that he has $100 ready to guarantee his appearance.

After the girls had put on their exhibition, Jack McDowell tackled Taylor with Chief Roberts as referee but Jack lasted only about three minutes.

Taylor surely will have to meet Anderson to continue to hold his championship. Anderson is working on a farm east of town, and is an all-round athlete. He takes just pride in his athletic abilities, and it is understood the Gleichen Fire Brigade is arranging with him to start a gymnasium in the Opera House this fall.

Farmers' Crop Report

Farmers' Unions are taking an active interest in crop reports and, we understand, are arranging to have a member of each local report conditions to the head office every two weeks in order that the head office may issue a regular report of conditions throughout Alberta.

This is a good move on the part of the Union. The CALL was unable to publish the report last week, but takes pleasure in producing it now. It reads:

"I hereby hand you a report of crop conditions in the district bounded as follows: Beginning at the Bow River on range line 24, north to Rosebud Creek, thence south-east to a point due north of Crowfoot station and on south to Bow River, and up the river to the place of commencement. The wheat yield will be about 16 bushels, about one third less than 1912. Oats and barley are a half short of last year's yield. I note the crops east of Namaka are much lighter than west of that place, but are from ten days to three weeks in advance of those west. The further east one goes the earlier the crops seem to be.—N. W. Hayes."

J. A. Ramsay, of the Busy Store, has added to his grocery side one of the celebrated Shriner-Gillette counters, which not only makes a beautiful display of goods but keeps everything perfectly clean—to say nothing of its great convenience. He has also installed an up-to-date candy show case, which makes an attractive display and places temptation in the way of the small boy, by which he has increased candy sales 100%.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

We regret to say that A. F. Larkin has been quite ill for the past few days and still is confined to his bed.

D. Vigar of Rosebud spent a couple of days in town this week visiting his son, F. C. Vigar, and his daughter, Mrs. D. C. Wishart.

Methodist preaching service next Sunday morning at 11; Presbyterian at 7.30 p.m.; union Sunday school at 10 a.m. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Our weather man will confer a great favor if he will only down Jupiter Pluvius for the next few weeks. All bets should be made in favor of the weather man.

Our reporter made a sad mistake last issue, much to the disappointment of the school children, in reporting the date of the opening of the Gleichen school. It opens on Monday, August 25.

Ratepayers of Gleichen will do well to remember that in order to obtain the rebate on taxes they should pay up not later than Saturday, August 30.

Miss Dickie will open a millinery parlor in J. A. Ramsay's store about September 1st. She is preparing to put in a complete stock and will be pleased to meet the ladies of Gleichen. Look for further announcement of the opening date.

Miss Davis has opened a dress-making parlor on Crowfoot St., en via the Telephone Exchange stairway, where she is prepared to meet all the ladies of Gleichen. Miss Davis has also taken over the agency for the Spirella model from Miss Convey and will be pleased to meet all former customers and others interested.
